TWO DEATHS THE TOLL OF MARIANNA WRECK

Engineer and Fireman Are Killed--Four Persons Injured

DANIEL GAYMAN HURT

Former Charleroi Man Propelled Through Window--Cause Not Known

Two men were killed and five were injured Saturday afternoon at 5:2.. o'clock, when southbound passenger train No. 142 of the Ellsworth branch left the track and was wrecked this side of Marianna. The two bodies of the dead men, engineer and firemen, were burned to a crisp.

The Dead.

WARREN NEWELL, aged 52 years, of Monongahela, engineer of the train.

JOHN H. CRISSWELL, aged 29 years of Elrama, fireman of train.

DANIEL GAYMAN, the oldest school teacher in Washington county; severe scalp wound.

DOMINIC BELMAN, aged 45 years, of Elrama, slightly cut about the head.

S. A. LITMAN, aged 55 years, of Uniowtown, slightly bruised about the shoulders.

G. D. FOLLEY, aged 36 years, of Clarksville, slightly bruised about the back.

A. V. D'ZUBAY, of Marianna, steamship agent and merchant; cut and bruised about the head and body.

What caused the wreck is a question that has not been satisfactorly answered. Theories of a broken rail, defective tires, of the breaking of the controller, this being the lever which controlls the speed of the engine, have been advanced. At the place of the wreck there is not a very great curve.

When the engine jumped the track there was a crash. The rails spread and the track was torn up for 200 yards. The wreckage piled up and took fire. Two coaches were entirly consumed. The engineer and fireman were caught under their engine. Conductor Cress ran to the engine but it was impossible to remove the two men, both of whom were fatally injured. The dying engineer, his legs crushed and his arm cut off, talked for a few minutes with John Mitchell baggage master, who had crawled to him. Then the fire approached, Mitchell retreated and as the flames closed in Newell was heard praying. The dead engineer's wife was a passenger on the train.

Conductor Cress telephoned for a relief engine and managed to get one passenger coached hauled away before it caught fire. The charred body of Engineer Newell was extracted from the wreck and removed to his home in Monongahela about midnight Saturday. Funeral services will be held from the late home at 2 o'clock Tuesday to be in charge of the Eagles and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

Besides his wife Mr. Newall leaves one son, Albert, who is to graduate from East Liberty Academy this week. His aged mother, Mrs. Albert Newell, lives at Sharpsburg. Three brothers and a sister also survive.

The body of Fireman Crisswoll, fearfully burned, was got out soon

John Oats Sees Charleroi Lads at Conneaut--All in Good Health

John J. Oates, one of the field inspectors of the State Health Department who has been operating in Crawford county, was home over Sunday making a brief visit with his family. Last week while working in the vicinity of Conneaught Lake he met the members of the Charlero Boys Brigade of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church who are camping there. The most of the company were at the fair grounds playing ball. All were in good health and spirits, Mr. Oates said, although some complained of one or two cold nights two of which frost was apparent. The boys were well spoken of by the inhabitants of that community, Mr. Oates said, and all seemed to be enjoying themselves hugely.

GOOD PAVED STREETS BIG BOON TO A TOWN

Lend Material Aid in Keeping Things Clean, Says Street Commissioner--Appearance of Seventh and Eighth Streets Improved

That paved streets are a good investment for any town was emphasized by Street Commissioner Jacob Hormell, who stated that paved streets very materially lessen the cost of maintaining the street department of the borough. Some very striking object lessons in this respect have been demonstrated lately. One of these was the improvements about the Pennsylvania station and yards incident to the building of the new station. Mud and dirt that was hauled off from the yards onto McKean avenue by teamsters, which had to be swept up and removed by the street cleaning department is now conspicuous by its absence. This has removed quite an item of expense, and leaves the department free to do more work elsewhere.

Another great improveemnt, Mr. Hormell says, which materially cut down expenses was the paving of Seventh and Eighth streets between Fallowfield and Washington avenues.

"Whenever there was a hard rain storm I had to take the teams and men there the first thing to remove the dirt and debris that was always washed down on Fallowfield from these streets. We put in a big lot of time there, but since those portions of the streets were paved, the work there is greatly lessened"

The paving of Lincoln avenue, Mr. Hormell says, together with the connecting side streets, would make a big reduction in the annual expenses of the street department. Every side street paved where the wash is heaviest effects a big saving to the borough in removing the debris that is always washed down after every hard rain.

Although Charleroi has made great progress in the matter of public improvements, the town has only between four and five miles of paved streets, while Monessen, a younger town, has about 12 miles of paved streets. There are not only easier to keep clean, but a saving is effected each year in the work of the street departments. Nearly two miles of this paving, however, was done by the land company that projected the town.

GOVERNOR TENER REFUSES REPRIEVE

Will Not Interfere With Judgment of Court in Ribarik Hanging

Unless through some act of providence Jan Ribarick, the Austrian murdered of three, cheats the gallows, he will die there tomorrow morning when Sheriff R. G. Lutton will spring the trap which will send the condemned man into eternity. The last possible doubt was removed late last night when the following telegram was received from Walter H. Gaither, private secretary to Governor John K. Tener:

"Governor Tener will not interfere with the judgment of the courts of Washington county in the Ribarick case."

PLAY FOUNDED ON HISTORICAL DATA

Founded on an incident that happened in France in 1795, one of the most thrilling and dramatic episodes in French history will be presented at the Palace Theatre tomorrow evening. The story is one of mistaken identity where an honest merchant and a bandit resemble each other so closely that one is taken for the other. The highwayman robs the Orleans coach that is conveying $375,000 in money to Napoleon's army. The merchant is mistaken for the bandit, arrested, and with another is sentenced to die. One the way to the guillotine the follower of the real bandit sentenced to die confesses. In addition to the "The Orleans Coach," which is a Pathe three reel film, two other reels will be presented, making five reels for Tuesday night.

WILL DEFEND HIS ANCESTRY

Hon. Edward Callaghan to Make Another Speech on Street Corner

In order to refute some reflections on his ancestry—the Irish race—Hon. Edward Callaghan, who announces that he is a Democratic candidate for the nomination for President of the United States, will make a public address this evening at 8 o'clock at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue. The charge was made that out of a large number of enlistments made by men of Irish birth and ancestry in the United States army during the civil war, a majority of them deserted. Statistics purporting to be taken from official records of the war department were produced in support of the assertion, a memorandum of which was given to Mr. Callaghan.

This Mr. Callaghan mailed to the war department at Washington, together with a letter of explanation, and asking for correct information in the matter. He has received a reply which completely refused the charges and this he proposes to read and discuss in his address tonight. The correspondence on both sides is interesting matter.

DANTE'S INFERNO AT THE COYLE

The "Divine Comedy of Dante," which opened at the Coyle theatre today for a three day's engagement, owes its origin to a little girl 9 years old when she became the inspiration. Dante, when a boy of 9 attended a festival in his native city of Florence, and became deeply interested in a little girl of ravishing beauty. The vision of Beatrice, whom Dante only saw a few times afterward, furnished his inspiration for the embodiment of uplifting womanhood of his great masterpiece The films of this great picture, with the volcano of Mt. Vesuvius in the background, were produced at a cost of $100,000, and are unquestionably one of the most remarkable achievements of motion protography.

Only Two Arrests Made.

One of the parties concerned in a breach of the peace case last week in which it was stated four were arrested, wishes the Mail to state that only two arrests were made. The other two went to the police station as witnesses, and were not arrested as reported.

Arrangements for celebrating the 35th anniversary of the Royal Arcanum will be made tonight by Charleroi Council No. 1240. All members are requested to be present. 264-t1

WILD WEST SHOW THE LAST OF THIS SEASON

Police Are Kept Busy

Show Day Compels Considerable Activity--Borough Treasury Enriched

Show day in Charleroi proved a busy day for the police but it also added considerably to the police department funds. All told, it is stated there were 15 arrests, all but three of them being for drunkeness The three were arrested for fighting, being two whites and one colored man.

The collections at police headquarters made by Burgess George W. Riebeck, when he held his hearings amounted to about $50. Approximately $23 of this was in fines, the balance constituting the costs. Most of the fines were the nominal assessment of $1.00 each for drunkeness and disorderly conduct.

BODY BADLY MANGLED

One leg off, and badly crushed and mangled, the body of a man was found near the Fayette City coal tipple at Fayette City Sunday. Apparently he had been struck and killed by a train. The body is being held at the Crowley mortuary at Fayette City awaiting identification.

In appearance the man is an American about 55 years old. He had on a pair of black trousers and a dark shirt, but no coat. His head was slightly bald. There was nothing on his clothing to acord any clue to his identification. Three fingers of the man's right hand are missing. Tattooed on his left arm are the letters "J. W."

Second Big Attraction of Year Draws Big Crowd Saturday

COL. W. F. CODY ALONG

Aged Show General Makes Big Hit on His First and Last Visit Here.

The second big show of the present season and the second largest that ever appeared in Charleroi performed here Saturday, with one of the most noted show generals in the country, Col. W. F. Cody, at its head. Like its predecessor a few weeks previous the show brought a big crowd to town. People came from all along the Monongahela valley and from far back in three counties. Known as the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Pawnee Bill Far East, a diversified performance was given both afternoon and evening, that proved decidedly entertaining to those who witnessed it.

By passing up Pittsburg as a show city, Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill broke a precedent. In his palmiest days Buffalo Bill was always a favorite with Pittsburg audiences but he and his younger associate chose this year not to visit there. They came here from Butler, bringing the whole show. Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East have 50 cars. Ringling Bros. circus which appeared here a few weeks ago has 85. Aggregations like Hagenbeck and Wallace or some of the others which Charleroi used to consider immense, travel with less than 40 cars.

Col. William F. Cody, better known to all people as "Buffalo Bill" because of his daring scouting work in the pioneer west, is advertising this as his present farewell tour, but whether like Patti, he will find show life too fascinating, or whether he will keep his promise and retire remains to be seen. At any rate he had a very notable part in his Saturday's performance here, and in common parlance, made a big hit. His most remarkable act was that of fancy shooting, his aim proving not to have suffered any because of his approaching old age.

There are many really featuring performances with the show. Possibly the one feature that most attracted Charleroi audiences was drill work of Zouaves. These soldiers executed scientific movements with a skill that would do credit to trained United States troops after years of drilling. Their final performance was that of wall climbing.

The wild west part of the program introduced the scenes of the far west of such nature as Col. Cody was familiar with. The attack on a company of emigrants by an Indian war party was of course not left out, but was gone through with an elaboroate-

BETTER CONDITIONS

The banking house of Henry Clews & Co., of New York, whose weekly Financial Review is an authority on industrial and business conditions, states that a more confident tone prevails in regard to the future. One of the reasons attributed is that the industrial and financial leaders seem to have resolved to cut loose from politics, and to no longer pay attention to or be a party to the agitation instituted for partisan purposes. A sound and more practical reason for business betterment is the continued improvement in the crop outlook. The third important element in the situation is the better labor outlook.

Here in the Pittsburg district where six months ago hordes of men were vainly looking for employment, it is hard to get enough workmen to man the mills and mines and other industries. In the Connellsville coke regions a big shortage in labor is reported, and all the big mills are reported to be running nearer to their capacity than for many months and even years. Locally the situation is brighter. More building operations are in progress or prospect than for some time, and mines in the vicinity are running steadily. Merchants are having "big days" of trade once more, and a more hopeful feeling is prevalent. Instead of sitting still and blaming it on the other fellow, people are beginning to saw wood and let politics take care of itself. So long as they do this the country is safe.

SANE AND SENSIBLE

The "Rosevelt or bust" sentiment which seemed so conspicuous in many sections of the country and which made itself heard over all other political noise, has failed apparently to carry the Republican leaders of the country off their feet. The great array of Roosevelt contests for seats in the coming Republican convention have been decided against the Roosevelt adherents, in almost every instance by acclamation, the Roosevelt members of the national committee voting against the contests brought by their own faction.

Now that the leaders are face to face with their duties, they are becoming more concerned for their party. They realize that to elect the candidate of the party, whoever he may be, New York must be carried. They realize that New York is unalterably opposed to Roosevelt. They understand that Ohio must be carried by the Republican candidate. There are many Republicans in Ohio for Col. Roosevelt, but there are also many Republicans who are opposed to him. Those Republicans contend that Col. Roosevelt has not given the President a square deal and they are disposed to retaliate should the opportunity be given.

No sign has come out of Chicago since the assembling of the Republican national committee indicating the nominee as between Col. Roosevelt and President Taft, but abundant evidence is coming from there that the convention is not to be bulldozed or otherwise forced into doing anything not for the best interests of the party. The work so far done by the national committee indicates that the nominee of the convention will be forced to get his nomination in the regular way and the nomination secured in any other way will not be worth the having, no matter which of the two leading candidates is chosen.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

That show people are human, the same as the spectators, was evidenced by an incident that occurred at the show grounds Saturday, when Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East exhibited here. After the afternoon performance when the cowboys, Indians, and other rough riders were riding to their dressing tents, a group of "cowgirls" who took part, dismounted hurriedly in front of their quarters.

"Hurry up girls, and get dressed," said one, "and we'll go over town and go to the moving picture shows."

Although in the show business themselves, they were susceptible to the charms of the "movies," the same as people who remain at home.

Another feature that showed the humaness of the troupe after the afternoon performance, was when a bunch of young Indian braves, still in their war paint and feathers, came out on the grounds with baseball gloves and balls, and proceeded to practice catching. Some of the painted warriors threw curves with apparently all the knowledge and science of the art of pitching, and were evidently familiar with the details of the game. These were no doubt students of the various Indian schools about the country which have produced some big league players, notably Chief Myers of the New York Nationals, and Bender, the star twirler of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics of the Americans, both of whom are full blooded Indians.

W. C. Clark, of the Economic Store of Kirk & Clark, has a small daughter who is very much impressed with the public playgrounds, which have just been opened in "The Pines." The first day she attended she returned in the evening full of animation and enthusiasm.

"Did you have a good time, dearie?" asked her mother.

"Oh, mamma, I never had such a good time," replied the little maiden. "We had hips on our heads, hips on our shoulders, hips on our hands, and hips on our sides!"

She referred to the calesthenic drills instituted by Miss Nelle Rylands, the instructress of the girls, where "arms at hips" is the basis of the exercises.

NOT A MINUTE AFTER NOON

Victor Herbert's Sixth Floor Appointment Was Too Much for His Fat Friend.

Victor Herbert, the musician, owns a six-story house up in the Seventies, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times Star. It is built tall and narrow, like a well. Mr. Herbert's music room and study occupies the entire sixth floor, and there is no elevator. The other day one of Mr. Herbert's acquaintances wished to see him on a matter of business.

"I'll be here until sharp noon," said Mr. Herbert. "Then I must go to fill an engagement. I can't wait a minute after the hour."

Mr. Herbert's friend is built a good deal like an orange. He makes a good deal of fuss about plain walking. Stair climbing is a thing he never does except under compulsion. When he reached Herbert's home it was just 20 minutes of 12. The servant telephoned up to the music room.

"Tell him to come right up," said Mr. Herbert.

Mr. Herbert's fat friend began climbing. He paused at the top of the first flight to breathe a little while. His pauses grew longer and more impassioned at the end of each succeeding flight. When he got to the sixth floor he was just able to dab a damp hand at Herbert and sit down in a stuffed chair, and begin to remove the evidences of internal heat from his streaming forehead. Mr. Herbert pulled out his watch.

"It's five minutes to 12," he said, warningly.

His fat friend waved his hand at him mutely, and went right on doing some of the best panting of the current season. His well-padded sides rose and fell like a hot-air balloon just before the ropes are cast off.

"Two minutes," said Mr. Herbert.

"Uh, uh—ugh," said his fat friend, feeling the veins in his neck thicken.

"Twelve o'clock," said Mr. Herbert, snapping the cover of his watch. "Sorry, I must go. Good-by."

Fifteen minutes later the wraith of a fat man crept down six flights of stairs, standing on each landing and holding to the banister, until his knees stopped trembling.

"Tell—uh, uh—Victor, I'll meet him at the Lambs' club," said he to Mrs. Herbert. "Street floor."

ness and care that put more of the realistic into it than most of such play attacks with most wild west shows.

Generally speaking Charleroi enjoyed a good show, and a good show day in what will probably end the greater part of the show season. A smaller show is booked for July, it is stated, but it will not be of such size as to compare either with Ringlings or with the Wild West and Far East show. After its performance here Saturday the latter named aggregation made a quick getaway, going to Connellsville, where it is showing today. Its route will be southward, through Fairmont, and other West Virginia towns to Charleston, W. Va.

Glad They Told Him.

What it is to be a genuine, single-minded egotist is illustrated by an occurrence related by an American who spends much of his time in England.

Among his acquaintances is a certain great invalid and spends most of his time distinguished Britisher who is a time in bed, a fact which, however, does not prevent him from receiving a great deal of company.

One day while thus in bed the Britisher, according to Harper's Magazine, received several guests. They all began to shiver and pull their coats about them as they huddled around the bed.

"What," exclaimed the invalid, "is it cold here?"

"We are freezing," answered a guest.

"Thank you for telling me," said the distinguished invalid, who thereupon rang a bell. The guests supposed that he was summoning a servant to build a fire, but when his man came in the invalid said:

"Mullins, bring me my down coverlet."

Another Man Without a Country.

Martin Gajen, "man without a country," has been ordered deported from the United States.

Gajen shipped from New South Wales on the barkentine Arizona, bound for San Francisco. When within two days' sail of the latter port he became insane.

Under the immigration laws he could not be received in this country, and the steamship company which brought him here was ordered to take him back to his starting place.

Bpt New South Wales refused to accept him. Gajen was born in Russia and that government was appealed to, but in vain.

Efforts were made by the immigration authorities in this country to locate some of the relatives of Gajen, but without success. Just where he is to be sent has not been determined.—New York World.

"Why are taxes so high this year?" demanded the indignant citizen.

"Will you consider it confidential if I tell you why?" whispered the clerk in the county treasurer's office.

VAST WEALTH GOES TO WASTE

Annually Hundreds of Thousands of Tons of Sulphuric Acid Are Carried Off by Streams.

One of the most interesting of the byproducts of the coal mine is sulphuric acid. Coal veins contain sulphur, most commonly in chemical combination with iron. The poorer the coal the more sulphur is there. Such compounds, becoming oxidized, form sulphuric acid, great quantities of which in a free state are continually draining from the mines into the rivers.

This sort of thing is going on at such a rate that the amount of sulphuric acid carried away by the streams of the coal region of pennsylvania in the course of a year has been estimated by the water resources branch of the government geological survey at 970,000 tons—a quantity equal to more than two-thirds of the total sulphuric acid consumed in a twelvemonth in the United States for industrial purposes.

Sulphuric acid has many uses in the arts. Among other things, it is employed to clean iron before the latter is galvanized; likewise in the treatment of sheet iron for making tinware, and the wire for fences and nails. For these and other purposes 75,000 tons of it are consumed annually in and about the city of Pittsburg.

Mark, then, the pity of the circumstances that, as determined by the government exports, no less than 95,000 tons of sulphuric acid flows in a year past the town of McKeesport, in the Youghiogheny river—that is to say, 20,000 tons more than is utilized industrially in Pittsburg and its vicinity during the same period.

To put the case otherwise, fully $1,200,000 worth of sulphuric acid, produced by nature, is carried away every year by one stream in a neighborhood where the same stuff is required for use by thousands of tons in factories. Here is a problem for the industrial chemist to solve—the obvious difficulty in the way being that the solution of acid is so very dilute that attempts to concentrate it would be likely to prove unprofitable.

Incidentally, the acid robs the streams of all their oxygen, kills the fishes, and attacks structures of iron. It literally eats up bridge piers, lock gates, etc., and at the present time is making a lot of trouble in the government canals along the headwaters of the Ohio.

Gave Tip on Hair Dressing.

The exhibit of the special school for truant and incorrigible boys at the child welfare exhibit has attracted much attention, and there are frequent inquiries concerning the boys themselves who have been greatly changed by their training in the school, says the Indianapolis News. The following story was told at the exhibit.

An incorrigible youngster, who while in the public schools had caused nervous breakdowns and discouragement among the teachers, and who had gained for himself the name of "the worst boy in the city," approached an instructor of the special school and said:

"I wish to speak with you."

"All right," said the teacher. "When, right now?"

"It is about your hair," said the boy, who seemed to have developed into something of an art critic. "They quit wearing rats down on Geisendorff street last June. Suppose you part it in the middle, fuss it up on the side and fix it somehow behind."

On another day the same boy looked closely at the teacher's coat as she entered the room in the morning. There was an expression of disgust on his face.

"Same dress! This is passing day, and I wore my good clothes," he said.

Making Weather to Order.

There is a possibility that at some dim and distant date we shall be able to provide weather to order. At any rate, a speaker at the Institution of Electrical Engineers in London held out a hope that this wonderful and scientific problem can be solved.

The suggestion is that by means of applied electricity clouds approaching our coasts shall be dispersed and prevented from crossing the country. In other words, the clouds would be broken and made to disgorge their moisture at sea.

The electrical defense of our coasts, if established, could be used at will, but the principal trouble would be the pleasing of everybody. Where one farmer, for example, would require rain, another might demand fine weather.

Undoubtedly if weather control were required scientists would proceed with their invention; but at present there seems no possibility of the nation at large requiring weather to order, for what suits one man does not suit another.

Unduly Suspicious.

"Gwendolen, have you been out driving with a young man?"

"Yes, auntie."

"H'umph!"

"But he had only one arm that he could use, auntie; he had been vaccinated on the other one."

(Pause.)

"Gwendolen, didn't you do the driving?"

A Short Trip.

"Dibbles started to church last Sunday."

"That was a step in the right direction."

"True, but unfortunately a step was as far as he went."

Lincoln's Superb Oratory.

In an address by Joseph H. Choate on the occasion of his eightieth birthday, Mr. Choate spoke thus of Mr. Lincoln's celebrated speech in Cooper Union, in 1860: "With an awkward form and most ungainly address, he stood there with a little trepidation, not very prepossessing; but when he came to speak it was as a flashlight. Not only his whole personality and his face lighted up, but he seemed to lighten up the audience, and for one hour or an hour and a quarter he discussed the great questions of the day and held the audience in the hollow of his hand."

First Mail Coach in 1784.

A theater owner was responsible for the first mail coach in 1784. John Palmer, Bath, England, saw that it took four days to get his actors from London. He went to the government authorities and persuaded them to start a number of coaches to carry the mails, and that these coaches should be built for speed and drawn by the fasteat animals in England. In a little while a revolution was worked.

STILL SEEK TREASURE

PEOPLE OF SCOTCH HIGHLANDS FIRM IN FAITH.

Tradition of Buried Wealth Lingers and Is Occasionally Made Stronger by Finds—Some Heavy Gold Ornaments Unearthed.

For centuries the search for ancient treasure has been pursued in the glens and wild places of the highlands of Scotland, and sometimes unexpected "finds" have been made, writes the duke of Argyll in Youth's Companion. For instance, a tradition that a treasure was hidden at Inverary had long been handed down. According to the legend, it would never be found except by a stranger. Generation after generation of children searched for it. If a badger made a hole in the hillside the children believed that the badger had the scent, and dug up his burrow; but no young or old badger ever came forth with bangles on its neck or its nose. The children watched every rabbit scrape or hen scrape to see if animal or bird had been attracted by anything shining under the sod or in the sand.

Then drainage was introduced. Formerly the glen was too wet to be cultivated, except on dry slopes where water could not gather, and a hand plow did all the necessary furrowing. But now red tiled pipes were put down to drain off water from flatter ground, and it was possible to sow in comparatively level places.

One pretty piece of grass land under a cliff was pointed out as a good bit for plowing. From the precipice above a great rock had fallen in long past ages. This had to be removed. The man at the plow tail was a stranger, an Englishman.

He put a bag of powder under the rock to blow it up. The explosion followed, the partly splintered rock heaved and fell on its side. Underneath where it had been was a gleam of the lost treasure! There were three bautiful, heavy gold bracelets, two of which had cups at their ends. The treasure had been found, and by a "stranger," as prophesied.

Those bracelets were beautifully wrought; one of them had plain ends where the wrist was slipped through. As for the pair with the hollow cups, an old tradition was recalled which declared that no person who had committed a fault could be forgiven unless the cups of gold at the gap in the bracelets were filled with his penitential tears. There is just room for the nose, like the wrist to slip in between the golden ends, and it is possible to hold the cups under the two eyes.

Sometimes ignorant men who have found such bracelets have looked on the gold as mere brass. In one case a number of bracelets found in an island of the Hebrides were used as drawer handles for an old pine chest of drawers. A peddler came to the cottage, found that the old chest had very heavy handles, and gave 15 shillings, or $3.75, for it. He took it away and sold the old handles for £20 each.

Such heavy ornaments as the bracelets must have been a burden to a Celtic beauty. For a warrior the gold was beaten out until it was thin, for then it was more portable and easily worked. Patterns of all kinds could be punched in it, so as to give a good effect in front. We can imagine how grand an old chief from Brittany or Wales or Ireland looked with a shining yellow band on his conical helmet, a broad plate of gold on his right shoulder and on his left a long yellow mantle girt in by the belt itself.

Tramp Then Wondered.

The first hobo of the spring season arrived in East Cleveland. He looked even more dejected than the first robin and shivered quite as much. And since then there have come other robins and other tramps, all wondering why they left the southland so soon, and all appearing blue and pessimistic.

One of them—a bum, not a bird—appeared at the residence of Colonel Bush the other morning. It was Sunday and the colonel himself answered the knock. The hobo took in the well-known military bearing at once and said: "Could you please help an old soldier?"

"Regular army?" asked the colonel, laconically.

"Yessir."

"Discharged?"

"No, sir; no, sir!" the hobo assured him. "I quit of me own accord! No, sir; they didn't discharge me."

And probably that tramp is wondering yet why he was kicked off the porch.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Didn't Feaze Sambo.

Sometimes the more you get a negro cornered, the less cornered you have him. This fact, long known to many, was discovered the other day by a leather man in the Swamp.

This man suddenly awoke to the fact that certain back walls were dingy with dirt and decided they'd look much better if whitewashed.

So he summoned his old negro factotum and told him to get busy with his whitewash brush, giving special direction to put two coats on.

When the job apparently had been finished, the leather merchant inspected it and found the whitewash suspiciously thin looking.

Summoning Sambo, he said as sternly as he could: "You didn't go over those walls twice, as I told you to."

"No, sir," was the quick reply. "I ain't gone over twice, but I done put two coats in de pail, sir; two coats in de pail!"—New York Evening Mail.

THE PRIMER OF SUCCESS

Do you want a position?
Do you want a girl?
Do you want to rent your furnished room?
Do you want to sell your house?
Do you want to sell your eggs, poultry or live stock?
Have you lost anything?
Have you anything to trade?
Do you want to sell your piano?

There are many who want to do one or the other of these things. Most of them don't know how to go about it. If they could only tell the people what they want they would be all right. If they could only let the people know without disclosing their identity that might be better still.

If you wont to buy, sell or secure any of the above, or if you want to trade anything, did it ever occur to you that the best thing in the world to do is to use the Classified Columns of the Mail.

PIGS

CAN BE RAISED CHEAPER ON

OUR SMALL FARMS

In the SACRAMENTO VALLEY

than in any other known section of the United States. This fact is due to the large quantities of alfalfa that can be grown here and the even temperature, which makes it possible for pigs to forage in the field every month in the year.

Packing houses in Sacramento and San Francisco will contract for all the hogs you can raise—the market is always short on hogs, and good prices prevail.

Hog raising is one of the most profitable industries in the Sacramento Valley, owing to the long growing season, the mild winters and the bountiful yield of alfalfa and grain.

A good stand of alfalfa, a year old, will support from 12 to 25 hogs on an acre throughout the year. Good sows will average 5 to 6 pigs each litter and will bear twice a year. In from 10 to 12 months' time, a hog raised on alfalfa alone should weigh from 200 to 250 pounds. Hogs meet with a ready sale at from 5 to 8 cents a pound. A little figuring will show you the possibilities of 20 to 40 acres of alfalfa one year old stocked with hogs. Stock can be raised from birth to maturity "without a shiver."

You can purchase one of these small farms on very liberal terms—

$15 DOWN THAT'S ALL $11 A YEAR THAT'S EASY

By making this small cash payment any man who is willing to work will win; every month in the year he can produce from this fertile soil some article of food that can be converted into immediate cash.

The market is waiting for your products—no matter what it may be—your success depends upon your own efforts, with no limit to your possibilities.

There is a charm to the life of a Sacramento Valley farmer; work is a pleasure out in the open air. He is king of his own little kingdom. In acres he knows that

"Twenty's Plenty — Forty's a Fortune"

The Sacramento Valley Irrigation Company will sell you from 20 to 80 acres of their great project on very easy terms. $15 an acre as a first payment and the balance spread over ten years. Ten years to make good. Could you ask for a better opportunity to meet success face to face?

DIVORCE SUITS ARE THREATENED

Effect of Carnival in Kittanning Likely to be Separation of Several Couples

That Charleroi was saved a muck of trouble by the cancellation of a date with a street carnival company to hold a week's engagement here is evidenced by the experience of our neighboring town of Kittanning with one of these self same aggregations. Mention was made recently of the disgraceful seance of a company of young sports at a supper with the "Princess Sultana," or "Little Egypt," as she was known later, an Oriental dancer with the company. A further echo of this "Little Egypt" scandal, as it was called, was heard last week when the Kittanning council dismissed Captain Charles Curren from the police department. Four volunteer firemen of Company No. 3 were also forced to resign.

The troublesome times for Kitannig's citizens is due to the desire of some of them to enjoy a night's pleasure in which they overstepped the bounds of propriety and the law. On the night of May 21 a party of prominent merchants and churchmen, all members of the hose company, kidnapped Mollie Morgan, known on the stage as "Little Egypt," or the "Princess Sultana."

After the vaudeville performance of the Cotting Carnival Company, "Little Egypt" was taken from her dressing room sans garments other than her fleshings and some flimsy gauze lace. Wrapped in blankets she was taken in an auto and to an upper room of the hose company and there danced nude on a large table in the center of the room. The girl was kept in the building dancing until the early morning hours, when the tolling of the bell on the Catholic church across the street brought the gang to its senses.

During the dancing the onlookers showered the girl with coins. When the party crept out to their homes, the woman nearly dead from exhaustion, made her way to the hotel and told her tale. She had picked up $227 in coin and bills before leaving the bilding and considering that she had been well paid, made no formal complaint.

The activity displayed by the council and borough president in rounding up the persons who were implicated in the night's revel is causing great uneasiness among some of the best-known business men in the city. The members of hose company No. 3 are all prominent and married. Much pressure has been brought to bear to keep the scandal down, but the council is going ahead with its investigation and is sparing no one.

Several divorce suits are a possibility before the revealations of what took place in the upper room of company No. 3 building during the night of May 21 is finished.

It is alleged that Captain Curren was cognizant of the kidnapping of "Little Egypt" by the members of the hose company, and also knew where she was to be taken. This the captain denied, but council ordered his dismissal regardless of his assertions.

TWO DEATHS THE TOLL OF MARIANNA WRECK

Engineer and Fireman Are Killed--Four Persons Injured

DANIEL GAYMAN HURT

Former Charleroi Man Propelled Through Window--Cause Not Known

Two men were killed and five were injured Saturday afternoon at 5:2. o'clock. when southbound passenger train No. 142 of the Ellsworth branch left the track and was wrecked this side of Marianna The two bodies of the dead men, engineer and firemen, were burned to a crisp

The Dead.

WARREN NEWELL, aged 52 years, of Monongahela, engineer of the train.

JOHN H. CRISSWELL, aged 21 years of Elrama, fireman of train

DANIEL GAYMAN, the oldest school teacher in Washington county; severe scalp wound.

DOMINIC BELMAN, aged 45 years, of Elrama, slightly cut about the head.

S. A. LITMAN, aged 35 years, of Uniontown, slightly bruised about the shoulders.

G. D. FOLLEY, aged 36 years, of Clarksville, slightly bruised about the back.

A. V. D'ZUBAY, of Marianna, steamship agent and merchant; cut and bruised about the head and body.

What caused the wreck is a question that has not been satisfactorily answered. Theories of a broken rail, defective tires, of the breaking of the controller, this being the lever which controlls the speed of the engine, have been advanced. At the place of the wreck there is not a very great curve

When the engine jumped the track there was a crash. The rails spread and the track was torn up for 200 yards. The wreckage piled up and took fire. Two coaches were entirly consumed. The engineer and fireman were caught under their engine. Conductor Cress ran to the engine but it was impossible to remove the two men, both of whom were fatally injured. The dying engineer, his legs crushed and his arm cut off, talked for a few minutes with John Mitchell baggage master, who had crawled to him. Then the fire approached, Mitchell retreated and as the flames closed in Newell was heard praying. The dead engineer's wife was a passenger on the train.

Conductor Cress telephoned for a relief engine and managed to get one passenger coached hauled away before it caught fire. The charred body of Engineer Newell was extracted from the wreck and removed to his home in Monongahela about midnight Saturday. Funeral services will be held from the late home at 2 o'clock Tuesday to be in charge of the Eagles and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

Besides his wife Mr. Newall leaves one son, Albert, who is to graduate from East Liberty Academy this week. His aged mother, Mrs. Albert Newell, lives at Sharpsburg. Three brothers and a sister also survive.

The body of Fireman Crisswell, fearfully burned, was got out soon

GOOD PAVED STREETS BIG BOON TO A TOWN

Lend Material Aid in Keeping Things Clean, Says Street Commissioner--Appearance of Seventh and Eighth Streets Improved

That paved streets are a good investment for any town was emphasized by Street Commissioner Jacob Hormell, who stated that paved streets very materially lessen the cost of maintaining the street department of the borough. Some very striking object lessons in this re-

One of these was the improvements about the Pennsylvania station and yards incident to the building of the new station Mud and dirt that was hauled off from the yards onto McKean avenue by teamsters, which had to be swept up and removed by the street cleaning department [illegible] conspicuous by its absence This has [illegible] leaves the department free to do more work elsewhere.

Another great improvement, Mr. Hormell says, which materially cut down expense was the paving of Seventh and Eighth streets between Fallowfield and Washington avenues.

"Whenever there was a hard rain storm I had to take the teams and men there the first thing to remove the dirt and debris that was always washed down on Fallowfield from these streets. The part of the big lot of time there, but since those portions of the streets were paved, the work there is greatly lessened"

The paving of Lincoln avenue, Mr. Hormell says, together with the con big reduction in the annual expenses of the street department. Every side street paved where the wash is heaviest effects a big saving to the borough in removing the debris that is always washed down after every hard rain.

Although Ch[illegible] progress in the matter of public improvements, the borough has only between four and five miles of paved streets, while Monessen, a younger town, has about 12 miles of paved streets. There are not only easier to keep clean, but a saving is effected each year in the work of the street departments. Nearly two miles of this paving, however, was done by the land company that projected the town.

GOVERNOR TENER REFUSES REPRIEVE

Will Not Interfere With Judgment of Court in Ribarik Hanging

Unless through some act of providence Jan Ribarick, the Austrian murdered of three, cheats the gallows, he will die there tomorrow morning when Sheriff R. G. Lutton will spring the trap which will send the condemned man into eternity. The last possible doubt was removed late last night when the following telegram was received from Walter H. Gaither, private secretary to Governor John K. Tener:

"Governor Tener will not interfere with the judgment of the courts of Washington county in the Ribarick case."

PLAY FOUNDED ON HISTORICAL DATA

Founded on an incident that happened in France in 1795, one of the most thrilling and dramatic episodes in French history will be presented at the Palace Theatre tomorrow evening. The story is one of mistaken identity where an honest merchant and a bandit resemble each other so closely that one is taken for the other. The highwayman robs the Orleans coach that is conveying $375,000 in money to Napoleon's army. The merchant is mistaken for the bandit, arrested, and with another is sentenced to die. One the way to the guillotine the follower of the real bandit sentenced to die confesses. In addition to the "The Orleans Coach," which is a Pathe three reel film, two other reels will be presented, making five reels for Tuesday night.

WILL DEFEND HIS ANCESTRY

Hon. Edward Callaghan to Make Another Speech on Street Corner

In order to refute some reflections on his ancestry—the Irish race—Hon. Edward Callaghan, who announces that he is a Democratic candidate for the nomination for President of the United States, will make a public address this evening at 8 o'clock at the corner of Fifth street and Fallowfield avenue. The charge was made that out of a large number of enlistments made by men of Irish birth and ancestry in the United States army during the civil war, a majority of them deserted. Statistics purporting to be taken from official records of the war department were produced in support of the assertion, a memorandum of which was given to Mr. Callaghan.

This Mr. Callaghan mailed to the war department at Washington, together with a letter of explanation, and asking for correct information in the matter. He has received a reply which completely refused the charges and this he proposes to read and discuss in his address tonight. The correspondence on both sides is interesting matter.

DANTE'S INFERNO AT THE COYLE

The "Divine Comedy of Dante," which opened at the Coyle theatre today for a three day's engagement, owes its origin to a little girl 9 years old when she became the inspiration. Dante, when a boy of 9 attended a festival in his native city of Florence, and became deeply interested in a little girl of ravishing beauty. The vision of Beatrice, whom Dante only saw a few times afterward, furnished his inspiration for the embodiment of uplifting womanhood of his great masterpiece The films of this great picture, with the volcano of Mt. Vesuvius in the background, were produced at a cost of $100,000, and are unquestionably one of the most remarkable achievements of motion protography.

The collections [illegible] ers made by Burgess George W. Beck, when he held his hearings amounted to about $50. Approximately $23 of this was in fines, the balance constituting the costs. Most of the fines were the minimum assessment of $1.09 each for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Second Big Attraction of Year Draws Big Crowd Saturday

COL. W. F. CODY ALONG

Aged Show General Makes Big Hit on His First and Last Visit Here.

The second appearance of the present [illegible] ever appeared in Charleroi performing the Sells [illegible] most noted show generals in the country, Col W. F. Cody at its head. Like its predecessor a few weeks previous the show brought a large crowd to town. People came from all along the Monongahela valley and from far back in three counties. Known as the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Pawnee Bill Far East, a diversified performance was given both afternoon and evening, that proved decidedly entertaining to those who witnessed it.

By passing up Pittsburg as a show city, Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill broke a precedent. In his palmiest days Buffalo Bill was always a favorite with Pittsburg audiences but he and his younger associate chose this year not to visit there. They came here from Butler, bringing the whole show. Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East have 50 cars. Ringling Bros. circus which appeared here a few weeks ago has 85. Aggregations like Hagenbeck and Wallace or some of the [illegible] others which Charleroi used to consider immense, travel with less than 40 cars.

Col. William F. Cody, better known to all people as "Buffala Bill" because of his daring scouting work in the pioneer west, is advertising this as his present farewell tour, but whether like Patti, he will find show life too fascinating, or whether he will keep his promise and retire remains to be seen. At any rate he had a very notable part in his Saturday's performance here, and in common parlance, made a big hit. His most remarkable act was that of fancy shooting, his aim proving not to have suffered any because of his approaching old age.

There are many really featuring performances with the show. Possibly the one feature that most attracted Charleroi audiences was drill work of Zouaves. These soldiers executed scientific movements with a skill that would do credit to trained United States troops after years of drilling. Their final performance was that of wall climbing.

The wild west part of the program introduced the scenes of the far west, of such nature as Col. Cody was familiar with. The attack on a company of emigrants by an Indian war party was of course not left out, but was gone through with an elaboroate—

BETTER CONDITIONS

The banking house of Henry Clews & Co. of New York, whose weekly Financial Review is an authority on industrial and business conditions, states that a more confident tone prevails in regard to the future. One of the reasons attributed is that the industrial and financial leaders seem to have resolved to cut loose from politics, and to no longer pay attention to or be a party to the agitation instituted for partisan purposes. A sound and more practical reason for business betterment is the continued improvement in the crop outlook. The third important element in the situation is the better labor outlook.

Here in the Pittsburg district where six months ago hordes of men were vainly looking for employment, it is hard to get enough workmen to man the mills and mines and other industries. In the Connellsville coke regions a big shortage in labor is reported, and all the big mills are reported to be running nearer to their capacity than for many months and even years. Locally the situation is brighter. More building operations are in progress or prospect than for some time, and mines in the vicinity are running steadily. Merchants are having "big days" of trade once more, and a more hopeful feeling is prevalent. Instead of sitting still and blaming it on the other fellow, people are beginning to saw wood and let politics take care of itself. So long as they do this the country is safe.

SANE AND SENSIBLE

The "Rosevelt or bust" sentiment which seemed so conspicuous in many sections of the country and which made itself heard over all other political noise, has failed apparently to carry the Republican leaders of the country off their feet. The great array of Roosevelt contests for seats in the coming Republican convention have been decided against the Roosevelt adherents, in almost every instance by acclamation, the Roosevelt members of the national committee by their own faction.

Now that the leaders are face to face with their duties, they are becoming more concerned for their party. They realize that to elect the candidate of the party, whoever he may be, New York must be carried. They realize that New York is generally opposed to Roosevelt. They understand that Ohio must be carried by the Republican candidate. There are many Republicans in Ohio for Col. Roosevelt, but there are also many Republicans who are opposed to him. Those Republicans contend that Col Roosevelt has not given the President a square deal and they are disposed to retaliate should the opportunity be given.

No sign has come out of Chicago since the assembling of the Republican national committee indicating the nominee as between Col. Roosevelt and President Taft, but abundant evidence is coming from there that the convention is not to be bulldozed or otherwise forced into doing anything not for the best interests of the party. The work so far done by the national committee indicates that the nominee of the convention will be forced to get his nomination in the regular way and the nomination secured in any other way will not be worth the having, no matter which of the two leading candidates is chosen.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

That show people are human, the same as the spectators, was evidenced by an incident that occurred at the show grounds Saturday, when Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East exhibited here. After the afternoon performance when the cowboys, Indians, and other rough riders were riding to their dressing tents, a group of "cowgirls" who took part, dismounted hurriedly in front of their quarters.

"Hurry up girls, and get dressed," said one, "and we'll go over town and go to the moving picture shows."

Although in the show business themselves, they were susceptible to the charms of the "movies," the same as people who remain at home.

Another feature that showed the humaness of the troupe after the afternoon performance, was when a bunch of young Indian braves, still in their war paint and feathers, came out on the grounds with baseball gloves and balls and proceeded to practice catching. Some of the painted warriors threw curves with apparently all the knowledge and science of the art of pitching, and were evidently familiar with the details of the game. These were no doubt students of the various Indian schools about the country which have produced some big league players, notably Chief Myers of the New York Nationals, and Bender, the star twirler of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics of the Americans, both of whom are full blooded Indians.

W. C. Clark, of the Economic Store of Kirk & Clark, has a small daughter who is very much impressed with the public playgrounds, which have just been opened in "The Pines." The first day she attended she returned in the evening full of animation and enthusiasm.

"Did you have a good time, dearie?" asked her mother.

"Oh, mamma, I never had such a good time," replied the little maiden. "We had hips on our heads, hips on our shoulders, nips on our hands, and hips on our sides!"

She referred to the calesthenic drills instructed by Miss Nelle Rylands, the instructress of the girls, where "arms at hips" is the basis of the exercises.

NOT A MINUTE AFTER HOUR

Victor Herbert's Sixth Floor Appointment Was Too Much for His Fat Friend.

Victor Herbert, the musician, owns a six-story house up in the Seventies, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times Star. It is built tall and narrow, like a well. Mr. Herbert's music room and study occupies the entire sixth floor, and there is no elevator. The other day one of Mr. Herbert's acquaintances wished to see him on a matter of business.

"I'll be here until sharp noon," said Mr. Herbert. 'Then I must go to fill an engagement. I can't wait a minute after the hour."

Mr. Herbert's friend is built a good deal like an orange. He makes a good deal of fuss about plain walking. Stair climbing is a thing he never does except under compulsion. When he reached Herbert's home it was just 20 minutes of 12. The servant telephoned up to the music room.

"Tell him to come right up," said Mr. Herbert

Mr Herbert's fat friend began climbing. He paused at the top of the first flight to breathe a little while. His pauses grew longer and more impassioned at the end of each succeeding flight. When he got to the sixth floor he was just able to dab a damp hand at Herbert and sit down in a stuffed chair, and begin to remove the evidences of internal heat from his streaming forehead. Mr. Herbert pulled out his watch.

"It's five minutes to 12," he said, warningly.

His fat friend waved his hand at him mutely, and went right on doing some of the best panting of the current season. His well-padded sides rose and fell like a hot-air balloon just before the ropes are cast off.

"Two minutes," said Mr. Herbert.

"Uh, uh—ugh," said his fat friend, feeling the veins in his neck thicken.

"Twelve o'clock," said Mr. Herbert, snapping the cover of his watch. "Sorry, I must go. Good-by."

Fifteen minutes later the wraith of a fat man crept down six flights of stairs, standing on each landing and holding to the banister, until his knees stopped trembling.

"Tell—uh, uh—Victor, I'll meet him at the Lambs' club," said he to Mrs. Herbert. "Street floor."

ness and care that put more of the realistic into it than most of such play attacks with most wild west shows.

Generally speaking Charleroi enjoyed a good show, and a good show day in what will probably end the greater part of the show season. A smaller show is booked for July, it is stated, but it will not be of such size as to compare either with Ringlings or with the Wild West and Far East show. After its performance here Saturday the latter named aggregation made a quick getaway, going to Connellsville, where it is showing today. Its route will be southward, through Fairmont, and other West Virginia towns to Charleston, W. Va.

Glad They Told Him.

What it is to be a genuine, single-minded egotist is illustrated by an occurrence related by an American who spends much of his time in England.

Among his acquaintances is a certain great invalid and spends most of his time distinguished Britisher who is a time in bed, a fact which, however, does not prevent him from receiving a great deal of company

One day while thus in bed the Britisher, according to Harper's Magazine, received several guests They all began to shiver and pull their coats about them as they huddled around the bed

"What" exclaimed the invalid, "is it cold here?"

"We are freezing," answered a guest.

"Thank you for telling me," said the distinguished invalid, who thereupon rang a bell The guests supposed that he was summoning a servant to build a fire, but when his man came in the invalid said:

"Mullins, bring me my down coverlet."

Another Man Without a Country.

Martin Gajen, "man without a country," has been ordered deported from the United States.

Gajen shipped from New South Wales on the barkentine Arizona, bound for San Francisco. When within two days' sail of the latter port he became insane.

Under the immigration laws he could not be received in this country, and the steamship company which brought him here was ordered to take him back to his starting place.

But New South Wales refused to accept him. Gajen was born in Russia and that government was appealed to, but in vain

Efforts were made by the immigration authorities in this country to locate some of the relatives of Gajen, but without success Just where he is to be sent has not been determined. —New York World.

VAST WEALTH GOES TO WASTE

Annually Hundreds of Thousands of Tons of Sulphuric Acid Are Carried Off by Streams.

One of the most interesting of the byproducts of the coal mine is sulphuric acid. Coal veins contain sulphur, most commonly in chemical combination with iron. The poorer the coal the more sulphur is there. Such compounds, becoming oxidized, form sulphuric acid, great quantities of which in a free state are continually draining from the mines into the rivers.

This sort of thing is going on at such a rate that the amount of sulphuric acid carried away by the streams of the coal region of pennsylvania in the course of a year has been estimated by the water resources branch of the government geological survey at 970,000 tons—a quantity equal to more than two-thirds of the total sulphuric acid consumed in a twelvemonth in the United States for industrial purposes.

Sulphuric acid has many uses in the arts. Among other things, it is employed to clean iron before the latter is galvanized. Likewise in the treatment of sheet iron for making tinware, and the wire for fences and nails. For these and other purposes 75,000 tons of it are consumed annually in and about the city of Pittsburg.

Mark, then, the pity of the circumstances that, as determined by the government exports, no less than 95,000 tons of sulphuric acid flows in a year past the town of McKeesport, in the Youghiogheny river—that is to say, 20,000 tons more than is utilized industrially in Pittsburg and its vicinity during the same period.

To put the case otherwise, fully $1,200,000 worth of sulphuric acid, produced by nature, is carried away every year by one stream in a neighborhood where the same stuff is required for use by thousands of tons in factories. Here is a problem for the industrial chemist to solve—the obvious difficulty in the way being that the solution of acid is so very dilute that attempts to concentrate it would be likely to prove unprofitable.

Incidentally, the acid robs the streams of all their oxygen, kills the fishes, and attacks structures of iron. It literally eats up bridge piers, lock gates, etc., and at the present time is making a lot of trouble in the government canals along the headwaters of the Ohio.

Gave Tip on Hair Dressing.

The exhibit of the special school for truant and incorrigible boys at the child welfare exhibit has attracted much attention, and there are frequent inquiries concerning the boys themselves who have been greatly changed by their training in the school, says the Indianapolis News. The following story was told at the exhibit.

An incorrigible youngster, who while in the public schools had caused nervous breakdowns and discouragement among the teachers, and who had gained for himself the name of "the worst boy in the city," approached an instructor of the special school and said:

"I wish to speak with you."

"All right," said the teacher. "When, right now?"

"It is about your hair," said the boy, who seemed to have developed into something of an art critic. "They quit wearing rats down on Geisendorff street last June. Suppose you part it in the middle, fuss it up on the side and fix it somehow behind."

On another day the same boy looked closely at the teacher's coat as she entered the room in the morning. There was an expression of disgust on his face.

"Same dress! This is passing day, and I wore my good clothes," he said.

Making Weather to Order.

There is a possibility that at some dim and distant date we shall be able to provide weather to order. At any rate, a speaker at the Institution of Electrical Engineers in London held out a hope that this wonderful and scientific problem can be solved.

The suggestion is that by means of applied electricity clouds approaching our coasts shall be dispersed and prevented from crossing the country. In other words, the clouds would be broken and made to disgorge their moisture at sea.

The electrical defense of our coasts, if established, could be used at will, but the principal trouble would be the pleasing of everybody. Where one farmer, for example, would require rain, another might demand fine weather.

Undoubtedly if weather control were required scientists would proceed with their invention; but at present there seems no possibility of the nation at large requiring weather to order, for what suits one man does not suit another.

Unduly Suspicious.

"Gwendolen, have you been out driving with a young man?"

"Yes, auntie."

"H'umph!"

"But he had only one arm that he could use, auntie; he had been vaccinated on the other one."

(Pause.)

"Gwendolen, didn't you do the driving?"

A Short Trip.

"Dibbles started to church last Sunday."

"That was a step in the right direction."

"True, but unfortunately a step was as far as he went."

Lincoln's Superb Oratory.

In an address by Joseph H. Choate on the occasion of his eightieth birthday, Mr. Choate spoke thus of Mr. Lincoln's celebrated speech in Cooper Union, in 1860: "With an awkward form and most ungainly address, he stood there with a little trepidation, not very prepossessing; but when he came to speak it was as a flashlight. Not only his whole personality and his face lighted up, but he seemed to lighten up the audience, and for one hour or an hour and a quarter he discussed the great questions of the day and held the audience in the hollow of his hand."

First Mail Coach In 1784.

A theater owner was responsible for the first mail coach in 1784. John Palmer, Bath, England, saw that it took four days to get his actors from London. He went to the government authorities and persuaded them to start a number of coaches to carry the mails, and that these coaches should be built for speed and drawn by the fastest animals in England. In a little while a revolution was worked.

STILL SEEK TREASURE

PEOPLE OF SCOTCH HIGHLANDS FIRM IN FAITH.

Tradition of Buried Wealth Lingers and Is Occasionally Made Stronger by Finds—Some Heavy Gold Ornaments Unearthed.

For centuries the search for ancient treasure has been pursued in the glens and wild places of the highlands of Scotland, and sometimes unexpected "finds" have been made, writes the duke of Argyll in Youth's Companion. For instance, a tradition that a treasure was hidden at Inverary had long been handed down. According to the legend, it would never be found except by a stranger. Generation after generation of children searched for it. If a badger made a hole in the hillside the children believed that the badger had the scent, and dug up his burrow; but no young or old badger ever came forth with bangles on its neck or its nose. The children watched every rabbit scrape or hen scrape to see if animal or bird had been attracted by anything shining under the sod or in the sand.

Then drainage was introduced. Formerly the glen was too wet to be cultivated, except on dry slopes where water could not gather, and a hand plow did all the necessary furrowing. But now red tiled pipes were put down to drain off water from flatter ground, and it was possible to sow in comparatively level places.

One pretty piece of grass land under a cliff was pointed out as a good bit for plowing. From the precipice above a great rock had fallen in long past ages. This had to be removed. The man at the plow tail was a stranger, an Englishman.

He put a bag of powder under the rock to blow it up. The explosion followed, the partly splintered rock heaved and fell on its side. Underneath where it had been was a gleam of the lost treasure! There were three bautiful, heavy gold braceleets, two of which had cups at their ends. The treasure had been found, and by a 'stranger," as prophesied.

Those bracelets were beautifully wrought: one of them had plain ends where the wrist was slipped through. As for the pair with the hollow cups, an old tradition was recalled which declared that no person who had committed a fault could be forgiven unless the cups of gold at the gap in the bracelets were filled with his penitential tears. There is just room for the nose, like the wrist to slip in between the golden ends, and it is possible to hold the cups under the two eyes.

Sometimes ignorant men who have found such bracelets have looked on the gold as mere brass. In one case a number of bracelets found in an island of the Hebrides were used as drawer handles for an old pine chest of drawers. A peddler came to the cottage, found that the old chest had very heavy handles, and gave 15 shillings, or $3.75, for it. He took it away and sold the old handles for £20 each.

Such heavy ornaments as the bracelets must have been a burden to a Celtic beauty. For a warrior the gold was beaten out until it was thin, for then it was more portable and easily worked. Patterns of all kinds could be punched in it, so as to give a good effect in front. We can imagine how grand an old chief from Brittany or Wales or Ireland looked with a shining yellow band on his conical helmet, a broad plate of gold on his right shoulder and on his left a long yellow mantle girt in by the belt itself.

Tramp Then Wondered.

The first hobo of the spring season arrived in East Cleveland. He looked even more dejected than the first robin and shivered quite as much. And since then there have come other robins and other tramps, all wondering why they left the southland so soon, and all appearing blue and pessimistic.

One of them—a bum, not a bird—appeared at the residence of Colonel Bush the other morning. It was Sunday and the colonel himself answered the knock. The hobo took in the well-known military bearing at once and said: "Could you please help an old soldier?"

"Regular army?" asked the colonel, laconically.

"Yessir."

"Discharged?"

"No, sir; no, sir!" the hobo assured him. "I quit of me own accord! No, sir; they didn't discharge me."

And probably that tramp is wondering yet why he was kicked off the porch.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Didn't Feaze Sambo.

Sometimes the more you get a negro cornered, the less cornered you have him. This fact, long known to many, was discovered the other day by a leather man in the Swamp.

This man suddenly awoke to the fact that certain back walls were dingy with dirt and decided they'd look much better if whitewashed.

So he summoned his old negro factotum and told him to get busy with his whitewash brush, giving special direction to put two coats on.

When the job apparently had been finished, the leather merchant inspected it and found the whitewash suspiciously thin looking.

Summoning Sambo, he said as sternly as he could: "You didn't go over those walls twice, as I told you to."

"No, sir," was the quick reply. "I ain't gone over twice, but I done put two coats in de pail, sir; two coats in de pail."—New York Evening Mail.

THE PRIMER OF SUCCESS

Do you want a position?
Do you want a girl?
Do you want to rent your furnished room?
Do you want to sell your house?
Do you want to sell your eggs, poultry or live stock?
Have you lost anything?
Have you anything to trade?
Do you want to sell your piano?

There are many who want to do one or the other of these things. Most of them don't know how to go about it. If they could only tell the people what they want they would be all right. If they could only let the people know without disclosing their identity that might be better still.

If you wont to buy, sell or secure any of the above, or if you want to trade anything, did it ever occur to you that the best thing in the world to do is to use the Classified Columns of the Mail.

PIGS

CAN BE RAISED CHEAPER ON

OUR SMALL FARMS

In the SACRAMENTO VALLEY

than in any other known section of the United States. This fact is due to the large quantities of alfalfa that can be grown here and the even temperature, which makes it possible for pigs to forage in the field every month in the year.

Packing houses in Sacramento and San Francisco will contract for all the hogs you can raise—the market is always short on hogs, and good prices prevail.

Hog raising is one of the most profitable industries in the Sacramento Valley, owing to the long growing season, the mild winters and the bountiful yield of alfalfa and grain.

A good stand of alfalfa, a year old, will support from 12 to 25 hogs on an acre throughout the year. Good sows will average 5 to 6 pigs each litter and will bear twice a year. In from 10 to 12 months' time, a hog raised on alfalfa alone should weigh from 200 to 250 pounds. Hogs meet with a ready sale at from 5 to 8 cents a pound. A little figuring will show you the possibilities of 20 to 40 acres of alfalfa one year old stocked with hogs. Stock can be raised from birth to maturity "without a shiver."

You can purchase one of these small farms on very liberal terms—

$15 DOWN THAT'S ALL $11 A YEAR THAT'S EASY

By making this small cash payment any man who is willing to work will win; every month in the year he can produce from this fertile soil some article of food that can be converted into immediate cash.

The market is waiting for your products—no matter what it may be—your success depends upon your own efforts, with no limit to your possibilities.

There is a charm to the life of a Sacramento Valley farmer; work is a pleasure out in the open air. He is king of his own little kingdom. In acres he knows that

"Twenty's Plenty — Forty's a Fortune"

The Sacramento Valley Irrigation Company will sell you from 20 to 80 acres of their great project on very easy terms. $15 an acre as a first payment and the balance spread over ten years. Ten years to make good. Could you ask for a better opportunity to meet success face to face?

DIVORCE SUITS ARE THREATENED

Effect of Carnival in Kittanning Likely to be Separation of Several Couples

That Charleroi was saved a muck of trouble by the cancellation of a date with a street carnival company to hold a week's engagement here is evidenced by the experience of our neighboring town of Kittanning with one of these self same aggregations. Mention was made recently of the disgraceful seance of a company of young sports at a supper with the "Princess Sultana," or "Little Egypt," as she was known later, an Oriental dancer with the company. A further echo of this "Little Egypt" scandal, as it was called, was heard last week when the Kittanning council dismissed Captain Charles Curren from the police [illegible] and firemen of Company No. 3 were also forced to resign.

The troublesome times for Kitanning's citizens is due to the desire of some of them to enjoy a night's pleasure in which they overstepped the bounds of propriety and the law. On the night of May 21 a party of prominent merchants and churchmen, all members of the hose company, kidnapped Mollie Morgan, known on the stage as "Little Egypt" or the "Princess Sultana."

After the vaudeville performance of the Cotting Carnival Company, "Little Egypt" was taken from her dressing room sans garments other than her fleshings and some flimsy gauze lace. Wrapped in blankets she was taken in an auto and to an upper room of the hose company and there danced nude on a large table in the center of the room. The girl was kept in the building dancing until the early morning hours, when the tolling of the bell on the Catholic church across the street brought the gang to its senses.

During the dancing the onlookers showered the girl with coins. When the party crept out to their homes, the woman nearly dead from exhaustion, made her way to the hotel and told her tale. She had picked up $227 in coin and bills before leaving the bilding and considering that she had been well paid, made no formal complaint.

The activity displayed by the council and borough president in rounding up the persons who were implicated in the night's revel is causing great uneasiness among some of the best-known business men in the city The members of hose company No. 3 are all prominent and married. Much pressure has been brought to bear to keep the scandal down, but the council is going ahead with its investigation and is sparing no one.

Several divorce suits are a possibility before the revealations of what took place in the upper room of company No. 3 building during the night of May 21 is finished.

It is alleged that Captain Curren was cognizant of the kidnapping of "Little Egypt" by the members of the hose company, and also knew where she was to be taken. This the captain denied, but council ordered his dismissal regardless of his assertions.
